Snapshot 4 (10)

This section covers the final integrated features of the autonomous driving system, as well as preliminary validation of enhancements planned for future versions. Tests in this section focus on verifying the stability, configurability, and logging functionality of the final build. It also includes exploratory testing for experimental features such as adjustable driving modes and sensor logging extensions.

The objective is to ensure the system operates consistently under prolonged use and can support modular improvements without breaking core functionality.

Focus Areas:

Logging system for sensor and decision data

Mode switching (e.g., aggressive vs. cautious driving profiles)

System performance under variable conditions

Graceful handling of edge cases and faults

Validation of modular design extensibility
